Book Recommendation

- One of my favorite books is Stone Fox by John Reynolds Gardiner. This book is one of my favorites because I really enjoy historical fiction that is set in places I have never visited. The book is set in pioneer times, no cars or electricity, and is in rural Wyoming.
- The main character, Little Willy, lives on a potato farm with his Grandfather and dog, searchlight. One day Little Willy finds that Grandpa is too sick to get out of bed because he so worried about losing the family farm. They might lose their farm because Grandpa did not pay his taxes.
- Little Willy decided to enter a sled dog competition with Searchlight and there is big prize if he wins. His main competition is a famous Native American Mountain man named Stone Fox. Stone Fox has entered the race to earn money to buy back the land stolen from his people by the white man.
